Study abroad programs

UQAT offers the option to undertake study abroad programs, which, based on the field of study, may or may not include, in various programs, a practical placement of one or two terms in length.

Deadline for nomination to study abroad programs

March 1: for the August to December term
June 1: for the January to June term

Nomination and application process

1. You need to confirm your eligibility for a period of study abroad by contacting the coordinator of study abroad (exchange student) programs at your home institution.
2. The coordinator of study abroad programs at your home institution must send an official nomination email (including your last name, first name, email address, field of study, and term) to mobilite@uqat.ca.
3. Once nominated, you will receive an email from UQAT containing instructions for submitting an official application for admission.
4. Once admitted to UQAT, International Student Services will support you in the preparation of your stay (immigration, insurance, accommodation, etc.) and in your introduction to UQAT.

Research placement or visit

Whether you are looking for a final-year practical placement, or pursuing a research program, UQAT has a number of research units and laboratories conducting cutting-edge work in their fields, which are ready to welcome you. A member of UQAT's faculty must formally invite you to participate; below are their areas of expertise:

- Agriculture
- Art Therapy
- Creation and New Media
- Forestry
- Education
- Indigenous Studies
- Engineering
- Administration
- Mines and Environment
- Psychoeducation
- Health
- Social Work

Invitation and admission process

1. You must receive an invitation from a UQAT faculty member to participate in a research placement or visit.
2. Subsequent to that invitation, you will receive an email from UQAT containing instructions for submitting an official application for admission.
3. Once admitted to UQAT, International Student Services will support you in the preparation of your stay (immigration, insurance, accommodation, etc.) and in your introduction to UQAT.

There is no deadline for receiving an invitation to participate in a research placement or stay.

Introduction and integration

To ensure that your experience is a successful one, you will be provided with access, before, during, and after your stay, to all the services available to the UQAT student community.
