As an interpreter of beautiful nature

I received my education from the Sámi education center, in Inari where I graduated as a jeweler and precious metal craftsman in 2012. In addition to my studies, I was on a student exchange twice with the support of UArctic. I was able to get to know the craft techniques and culture of the indigenous peoples of the regions, both in Nunavut, Canada, and Taimyr, Russia.

I have earned a living with the jewelry designs I create. Working independently allows me to move around in nature according to the conditions, which motivates to work in return.

My jewelry embodies the precious nature of the north. Its terrain, fauna, natural phenomena and local culture, about which I seek and share information, without forgetting the symbolism. As materials, I mainly use recycled silver, copper and local gold.

I do my best for high-quality Finnish crafts and creative nature.
Welcome to my workshop to get to know me and my working methods on June 8, 2025!
